Emergency Preparedness Tips: Evacuations

As Albertans have already seen this year, evacuations can happen at a moment's notice. Here is some information so you can be prepared:

What is the difference between an Evacuation Alert and an Evacuation Order?

- An Evacuation Alert means that people should be prepared to evacuate soon, if the situation deteriorates. Alerts help you prepare to leave on short notice. Take the actions directed, be prepared to go quickly and monitor trusted sources of information for updates.
- An Evacuation Order means that people must evacuate now. Evacuation Orders are issued when you are in danger. Evacuate immediately if you are located inside an Order's boundaries and directed to evacuate. Delaying your departure can put your life at risk and hinder emergency response efforts. Follow the specific instructions provided by your local authorities during an evacuation.

How can I be prepared for an evacuation?

Preparing in advance can keep you safe and comfortable, and help you get back to your normal life and work more quickly:

- Prepare an emergency kit with AT LEAST 3 days' worth of supplies.
 - It is important to note that many evacuations last longer than 3 days, and it is always better to prepare for longer evacuations with more supplies, if you can.
- Have plans for your children and pets, especially if you are not home when an evacuation occurs.
- Know your insurance policy, and take pictures of your property/belongings in case you need to file a claim.
- Keep cash on hand in case ATMs or banks are closed/offline.

Thank you to all of our generous sponsors!

What do I do during an evacuation?

It will depend on the emergency and the type of evacuation, but some of the most common tips are:

- Follow the instructions given in the Evacuation Order (travel routes, reception centres, registration phone line, etc.).
- Secure your home.
- Stay calm and travel safely.
- Notify others that you are evacuating.
